

UK Modern Slavery Act Statement

1) Introduction

This statement is made by Deutsche Bahn Group (DB Group) pursuant to section 54 of the UK Modern Slavery Act (MSA) 2015 and covers the financial year ending 31 December 2020. It sets out the steps DB Group is taking to reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking taking place in its business and supply chain.

In parallel, the following three parts of DB Group with larger operations in the United Kingdom have issued individual statements, which are linked to their respective homepages.

2) DB Group – at a glance

DB Group is an international provider of mobility and logistics services operating globally in more than 130 countries. Its headquarters are in Berlin, Germany. DB Group has more than 320,000 employees, with 35% employed outside Germany.

We design and operate the transport networks of the future. By integrating transport and the rail infrastructure, as well as through the economically and environmentally intelligent linkage of all modes of transport, we move both people and goods.

In passenger transport, we transport more than 7 million people each day on our trains and buses throughout Europe.

In rail freight transport, our network carries more than 210 million tons of freight each year. The number of shipments by road exceeds 100 million. Our global networks move nearly 1.1 million t of freight by air and about 2.0 million TEU by sea. At more than 33,000 km, our rail network in Germany is Europe's longest and we are also one of Germany's largest energy suppliers.

3) General Statement

DB Group places great importance on respecting and promoting human rights and fundamental freedoms. That includes having a zero-tolerance policy approach to all forms of slavery and human trafficking.

DB Group signed up to the UN Global Compact in 2009 and is a founding member of the rail sustainable procurement initiative Railsponsible, established in 2015 and further developed ever since. Furthermore, at national level, DB Group is involved with econsense, the Forum for Sustainable Development of German Business and in the sustainability council of the national association for logistics and procurement (BME). Deutsche Bahn is also represented in the Conference Board with an active role in sustainability issues. The Conference Board is a global, independent economic association that works in the public interest. Along with this we also have affirmed our commitment to the understanding of sustainability of the Council for Sustainable Development by our declaration of conformity with the German Sustainability Code. The topic of human rights is also an integral part of DB Group's stakeholder dialogs and supplier contracts based on the Code of Conduct for Business Partners.

4) Policies on Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

DB Group's commitment to maintaining the highest ethical standards is reflected by our regulations in particular by applying the DB Code of Conduct and the DB Code of Conduct for Business Partners. The reviewed and updated version of our DB Code of Conduct for Business Partners came into force on 1 May 2019. The new version strengthens the strict rejection of any form of forced labor, by explicitly referencing to the ILO Conventions 29 and 105. The DB is granted the right to audit suppliers on site to confirm that suppliers' activities are in compliance with the Code of Conduct for Business Partners. From May 2019 on, the revised version is binding for all new contracts. It is available in 30 languages.

The DB Code of Conduct and the DB Code of Conduct for Business Partners are binding sets of rules which guide and support when dealing with ethical challenges that might arise in the course of day-to-day management. DB Group has a range of instruments to promote the DB Code of Conduct and the DB Code of Conduct for Business Partners, amongst others our e-learning-courses.

5) Steps taken

Within DB Group, the management approach to human rights centers on identifying relevant risks. Risk analyses are performed to identify potentially adverse impacts of DB Group business activities on human rights. The main criteria of these analyses focus on the type of business activity (business model) and the country risk related specifically to human rights. Specific actions are derived from the findings in respect of identified risks.

Procurement continues to focus on sustainable criteria. DB Group's purchasing department implements the DB Code of Conduct for Business Partners and the purchasing guidelines for all suppliers. DB therefore aims at observing and continuously improving environmental and social standards in the supply chain together with suppliers, beyond our own added value. In 2020, we have developed a new e-learning module about DB Group's Code of Conduct for Business Partners. This web-based training provides business partners of DB Group with a concise overview of essential requirements and principles which serve as a basis for cooperation between DB Group and its partners. The e-learning module will be implemented in the first quarter of 2021.

In addition, further supply chain analyses are conducted together with DB Group suppliers in order to identify working conditions at risk in the supply chain and promote practical understanding of the supply chain structure and existing social risks. One objective is to develop means of influencing identified risk areas and supply chain stages that do not add value. To this end, DG Group started auditing the compliance of our Code of Conduct at suppliers which operate in high risk businesses or supply chains.

For its own operations, DB Group has implemented a central whistle-blowing management. Various channels are offered for employees, business partners, customers etc. to submit reports about suspected infringements. The whistle-blower system can be used in 22 languages. It is open for all tip-offs on human rights violations, whether arisen in the supply chain or committed by employees of DB Group. Reports are treated with strict confidentiality or - on request - anonymously. Whistleblowers can seek legal advice from the whistleblowing management team or from one of our attorneys of trust before submitting a report. For employees and executives specifically, the ombudsperson is available as a contact person on matters of human rights. A follow-up process is in place to examine alleged violations of human rights. During the course of 2020, DB Group launched a series of short integrity films for our employees and executives. One of these films deals exclusively with the topic of human rights.
